

Miscellaneous Resources

www.nasfaa.org/redesign/ParentsStudents.html

The student and parent section of the NASFAA website provides a variety of information, including a handout about the availability of student loans, how to find help completing the FAFSA, an on-line financial aid brochure, a guide to tuition tax benefits, an article on understanding credit, and links to other resources.

www.finaid.org

This comprehensive website includes information about scholarships, loans, savings plans, and military aid. It also has information about other types of aid, aid applications, financial aid calculators, and an “Ask the Aid Advisor” feature for personalized assistance.

The websites of the colleges and universities in your area are also excellent resources. The financial aid sections of each site should include information about aid specific to the school as well as links to additional resources.

<http://www.collegegoalsundayusa.org/>

College Goal Sunday is a program in over 30 states that helps students and families learn about financial aid and provides one on one help for completing the FAFSA.

The following resource documents are available for downloading or printing from www.FSA4counselors.ed.gov:

- Student Aid Program Summary.
- Financial Aid Application Checklist.
- Application Form Tracking Worksheet.
- Cost of Attendance Comparison Worksheet.
- Award Package Comparison Worksheet.
- Financial Aid Consultants and Scholarship Search Services Fact Sheet.
- Sample Scholarship Inquiry Letter.
- Glossary of Financial Aid Words.

The above list of resources will provide students and families with information about financial aid, applying for aid, tracking and comparing information from the schools to which they apply, a sample scholarship inquiry letter, and a glossary.

This page intentionally left blank.