

Federal Student Aid at a Glance

WHAT is federal student aid?

It's financial help for an eligible student to pay for educational expenses at a postsecondary school (e.g., college, vocational school, graduate school). There are three categories of federal student aid: grants, work-study and loans. Check with your school to find out which programs your school participates in. Federal aid covers expenses such as tuition and fees, room and board, books and supplies, and transportation. Aid also can help pay for a computer and for dependent care.

WHO gets federal student aid?

Our most basic eligibility requirements are that you must

- demonstrate financial need,
- be a U.S. citizen or an eligible noncitizen,
- have a valid Social Security number, and
- show you're qualified to obtain a postsecondary education by
 - ▶ having a high school diploma or General Educational Development (GED) certificate;
 - ▶ passing an approved ability-to-benefit test (if you don't have a diploma or GED, a school can administer a test to determine whether you can benefit from the education offered at that school);
 - ▶ meeting other federally approved standards your state establishes; or
 - ▶ completing a high school education in a home school setting approved under state law.

HOW do you apply for federal student aid?

1. Complete the Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA)—the online version (FAFSA on the Web) or the paper FAFSA.

For FAFSA on the Web, go to www.fafsa.ed.gov. Using FAFSA on the Web is faster and easier than using paper.

If you don't have Internet access, you can get a paper FAFSA from

- our Web site at www.FederalStudentAid.ed.gov/pubs (download a PDF) or
- our Federal Student Aid Information Center at 1-800-4-FED-AID (1-800-433-3243).

You can apply beginning January 1, 2008; you have until June 30, 2009, to submit your FAFSA. But you need to apply early! Schools and states often use FAFSA information to award nonfederal aid. Their deadlines are usually early in the year. You can find state deadlines at FAFSA on the Web or on the paper FAFSA. Check with the schools you're interested in for their deadlines.

2. Review your Student Aid Report (SAR).

After you apply, you'll receive a Student Aid Report, or SAR. Your SAR contains the information reported on your FAFSA and usually includes your Expected Family Contribution (EFC). The EFC, a measure of your family's financial strength, is used to determine your eligibility for federal student aid. Review your SAR information and make any corrections or changes, if necessary. The school(s) you list on your FAFSA will get your SAR data electronically.

3. Contact the school(s) you might attend.

Make sure the financial aid office at each school you're interested in has all the information needed to determine your eligibility. If you're eligible, each school's aid administrator will send you an award letter outlining the amount and types of aid (from all sources) the school will offer you. You can compare award letters from the schools to which you applied and see what aid you can receive from each school.
